Dear Friends,

Who is this Jesus who shakes us into Resurrection Life?

This morning I am reading from my favorite bad boy, Paul. Paul was the earliest of the New Testament writers. As such, he speaks to us with a directness that can go right to the heart. I love the depths of his wish for us in his letter to the Ephesians: "I pray that, according to the riches of his glory, he may grant that you may be strengthened in your inner being with power through his Spirit, and that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith, as you are being rooted and grounded in love.) (3:16)

I continue to marvel as I learn how to live through Jesus. Here are some more thoughts from Belden Lane that tickle and stretch my fascination:

"He wanders in and out of my reading of Bernard of Clairvaux, Marcus Borg, Dorothy Day, Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, and John Shelby Spong. Each with a finger on the mystery of this figure who pulses back and forth in my life: "Jesus, lover of my soul." "He walks with me and he talks with me and he tells me I am his own." "Jesus, the very thought of thee."

This is the Jesus who refuses to be contained in rigid, orthodox formulas of doctrinal correctness.

The Jesus who wasn't content with remaining the exclusive Son of God, insisted that all are beloved sons and daughters of the Most High. He stays restless in promoting the work of deification – turning every human being (the whole of creation) into the image and likeness of God.

Interested in walking and talking and making Jesus more of your own? This past week over 30 people raised their hands when I asked if together we would like to take on the 50-day challenge to meet Jesus, first of all through the gospel of Luke. I will be placing our book order next week. In the meantime you have time to ask a partner or friend if they would like to join us in the challenge. Your reading will happen in your own home, and on your own time, but we will look for ways to celebrate how we are growing together how we are being rooted and grounded in love during those 50 days.

Garden Update

Bud Morrison brought his front end loader to the garden yesterday and spread compost on Bakers Acres. Bud has been involved with the garden from the beginning. He drilled the post holes to place the original garden boxes. He has moved large rocks where needed. He has spread compost at least four times. The volunteer of his time and machines has contributed to the success of our garden. We should do something for him to show our appreciation. Any ideas?

Next week, Larry Adams will rototill Bakers Acres. The cost will be $60. This Saturday, for those who can make it, we will have a mini work day. Bring a steel rake to pull debris away from the fence line to help with the planting of sun flowers We will start around 9. Cheryl Albaugh is our "Sun Flower Girl".

Weather permitting; there will be dinner at the garden this Friday. ~Tim

Sewer Update

Well downstairs is all painted bright and beautiful and the linoleum and carpet is being laid now. It looks like the room will be filled with little feet soon. We still have 10 feet to sell to pay for the sewer replacement. Thanks so much for all your support on this – we do step up to the plate (go Mariners) when things like this happen. We should be able to walk on the sidewalk soon. You may want to notice the yellow daffodil that survived it all in Beth's garden. I think Beth is smiling down at us.
